SATURDAY DECEMBER 22.

AMITY CHURCH PERS.

A few weeks ago the Chicago Tribune made an enumeration of those in attendance at the churches in that city on a certain Sunday, and the fact was revealed that on that day was a little gloomy and the sky was lowering, there was a falling off of one-half of the church attendance. The New York World has paid some attention to the question in that city, and it finds that hundreds of pews are empty every Sunday. Recently it interviewed several hundred persons—lawyers, editors, mechanics, merchants, and others—requesting their reasons for staying away from church service. The reasons given were largely that the sermons were too long and dry, and they could find no profit or interest in them. They did not want to be "preached to death," as some put it, for, as still more said, they did not want to be tried and vexed by the long, dull sermon in which they could not become interested. And so the World made a plea for shorter and more instructive discourses that the working man, the merchant, the professional man, whose hours of labor during the week are long and weary, may find comfort and instruction in them.

Professor Swing was interviewed the other day on the same subject and he gave some of the causes that have led to dwindling congregations in certain churches. Among other things he said: "No doubt the churches would be better attended if fewer sermons were preached and if the evening sermon were omitted, as is now by many churches. More people would be willing to go to church if the services were only a service of worship, for as I said a moment ago, thousands of people are mentally incapable of listening to a connected discourse for an hour, and they find nothing in a sermon which they feel repays them for the mental effort. There are certainly too many sermons each year in the average church. Yet it will not do to discard the solid thinking and teaching and rely wholly upon the exercises of religion. There is a good deal of sound sense in the remarks of Professor Swing. But while too much preaching—too many tiresome sermons—keep thousands away from the churches, there is still another cause, that of indifference or lack of acquaintance with religion and religious services. There are hundreds of hard working men in Janesville who seldom, if ever, attend church. Ask them why, and the substance of the answer will be 'they don't want to.' They don't seem to feel the need of the services that lead to build up the spiritual man. There is nothing in or about a church that attracts them. It is this class of persons that are non church goers. It is this class that must see the church and its services. How to get them to appreciate this fact, is one of the great questions of the day."

There does not appear to be any good reason why efforts should be made to secure an immediate second term. The prohibition is constitutional, and has been over since the state was organized. This is the New York law, and Wisconsin borrowed it from that state. Article VI and section IV of the state constitution provides that "shall hold no other office, and be ineligible for two years next succeeding the termination of their office." Just why a sheriff should be prohibited from serving two successive terms, is not very clear to an ordinary mind. There does not seem to be any justice in the prohibition, and nothing whatever of practical common sense.

That brilliant and witty young politician of Iowa, J. P. Dooliver, will represent the tenth Iowa district at the next congress. His majority over his opponent was 5,368. When he gets fairly in the harness at Washington Senator Dooliver will have to look to his laurels, for Dooliver is a show as well of wit and satire. —Chicago Tribune.

Mr. Dooliver has had a remarkable career. In the summer of 1884, being hardly more than a boy, he was elected to a delegate to the Iowa state convention. He wrote a speech, full of point and wit, committed it to memory, and delivered it before the convention. It was so well delivered, and was so pregnant with hard facts against the democracy, that the young man built himself a national reputation in a day. He is deserving of all he has gained by that speech.

Lines that are quite true, although they come from the New York Sun: If Thomas C. Platt goes into the cabinet there will be fun. If Thomas C. Platt does not go into the cabinet there will be more fun. If James G. Blaine goes into the cabinet there will be lots of fun. If James G. Blaine does not go into the cabinet there will be no end of fun. So, perhaps, before long we may be happy yet.

Congressman Scott, of Pennsylvania has disappeared as completely as if the earth had opened and swallowed him. He has not been on the floor of the house during the present session, and there is a yawning chasm in the democratic ranks. Scott has not been able to face the music since the election. His reputation as a gaffer, his $50,000 to the campaign fund, and his faith in Cleveland as a runner, are gone forever.

New York has too many great men who are not always wise. There is no room in the cabinet for all of them, and those who are making the mistake of putting them there, are those who should not get their act.

They lost a precious charm to keep the rosy cheeks from fading. To keep from teeth decay and decay. To sweeten and purify the breath. This charm they lost a mortal wound. And ZORROASTER the called on earthy ground.

BOTH ARE SAFE.

Positive Information Received from Stanley and Emin.

OSMAN DIGNA'S STORY UNTRUE.

Both Men in Good Health and in Want of Nothing August 29.—Letters delivered at Zanzibar—Action of the British Parliament.

THE KILIMANJARO HEAD PHOT.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—A Zanzibar dispatch says: "Letters dated Stanley Falls, August 29, have been delivered here by Tippo Tib's man. They state that a letter was received at Stanley Falls from Henry H. Stanley on August 24. Stanley was then at Bonny, on the Arctwindi, where he had arrived on August 18. He had left Emin Pasha eighty-two days before in perfect health and provided with plenty of food. Stanley had returned to Bonny for the loads of stores in charge of his rear guard and intended to leave two days later to rejoin Emin. He reported all the whites in the expedition as healthy, and said the expedition wanted nothing.

The West African Telegraph Company has received the following dispatch from Parsons, its agent at St. Thomas, dated February 11: "I have just received information that Henry H. Stanley, with Emin Pasha, has arrived on the Arctwindi. The news is reliable. Further details will follow."

A dispatch to the Times from Zanzibar says: "Tippo Tib's messenger came by way of Zanzibar, Kilim and Uruambe, with letters from Stanley dated August 29. They contain the other accounts that Stanley left Emin Pasha, and that both were perfectly well. The messenger will return direct to Tippo Tib."

In the debate on East African affairs in the House of Lords, Lord Salisbury declared absolutely that there would be no expedition into the Sudan, but that Sudan must not be abandoned. He said he would not discuss the question of how far the current at Sudan must be increased, but the whole character of the operations must be enlarged. Any policy that was based on the idea that the friends of the Sudan would not be the Government of England to start of Egypt was founded upon sand. Those who advised the Government to seize Sudan and to hold the English flag there should study the treaty of 1898.

Mr. Goschen read the telegram announcing Stanley's safety in the House of Commons, but said that the Government had not received any direct official news confirming this report. Referring to the report that General Grenfell's next march would be against Haudub, Mr. Goschen said that the Government had no news from General Grenfell showing that it was his intention to undertake such a march.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The latest report from Sudan states that the enemy is being reinforced by large numbers from the interior tribes, and an attack may be expected within the next few days. The Arabs will not only try to recover the positions lost, but that they will attempt to capture the town of Khartoum.

THE WAR IN EGYPT.

capture the town itself. The Arabs are at a disadvantage in trenches and are known to be fierce fighters in an open field. The correspondents at Sudan think that the enemy will be able to lead to the coming attack double the force in the town, and not fighting may be expected.

STARKIN, Dec. 22.—The British force passed a quiet night. A few of the enemy's horsemen have been seen in the distance. The men of the force have been reconnoitering the country. Osman Digna has collected his forces at Haudub in expectation of an attack. Telegrams congratulating the troops have been received from Queen Victoria and the Khedive.

During the last fight at Sudan All Khooz, a stalwart black, used his Enfield bayonet with such force that the steel broke six inches from the point. The barrel of his rifle was also twisted out of shape. All Khooz is said to have killed twenty Arabs single-handed. Fifty of the Enfield rifles used by the British were twisted or broken.

Osman Digna's nephew, who was captured Thursday, has died from his wounds. He was a famous leader among the Arabs. The natives are in a state of consternation over a rumor that the British had withdrawn. Positions are being signed generally asking for the occupation or destruction of Haudub and the capture of Osman Digna.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 22.—The Sultan is displeased with the news from Sudan. He thinks the occurrences there will be a pretext for prolonging the British occupation.

SUN SHOWING FIGHT.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 22.—The Exchange Hotel, three-story frame building, burned to the ground Thursday night, together with a frame building occupied by Pat McLaughlin as a saloon. A railroad man named Collins and a friend of the same name, are supposed to have perished in the flames. (Collected bones and fragments of human flesh were found in the ruins.)

SACKVILLE'S SUCCESSOR.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—In the House of Lords Friday evening Lord Salisbury, replying to a question designed to elicit a definite statement as to when a Minister to Washington would be appointed, said the correspondence on the subject was incomplete and a statement was therefore impossible.

My Poor Back!

That "poor back" is held responsible for more than its share of the sufferings of mankind. If your dog bites a man who kicks it, do you blame the dog? On the same principle the kidneys utter their protest: resulting constipation. These force them out of the system of the poisons which are the blood. Then the sufferer says the blood. "Not yet;" but they will be blood purified, and the constipation of kidney troubles, and Paine's Celery Compound, making it almost infallible in cure. If your hopes of cure have not been realized, try Paine's Celery Compound. It gives perfect health to all who complain of "their poor backs."
